THEY CURSED TRUTH TELLERS AND CATS

After a grueling day of travel, the elderly monk paused to offer a prayer of gratitude for the distance he had covered. Curious about his practice, I inquired further, and he shared an insightful perspective: while many individuals tend to invoke prayers for safety and guidance at the beginning of their journeys, few take the time to express their appreciation at the end of the day. This simple act of thanksgiving, he noted, is often overlooked, yet it holds profound significance in acknowledging the blessings received along the way.

"Just as self-centered!" he remarked before returning to his prayers. Suddenly, it clicked for me! I realized why he often emphasized that "God does NOT heed selfish prayers!"
